BRAKE TECHNOLOGY DIAGNOSIS AND REPAIR

The automotive industry is growing at a rapid pace toward integrated brake systems that are capable of much more than simply slowing a vehicle. Vehicle stability control, ABS braking, regenerative braking, and electric park brakes are becoming commonplace. With this rapid expansion and growth in brake technology, it is becoming more vital that each technician properly understands brake function and testing. A good solid foundation on the operational principles within the braking system coupled with the comprehension of upcoming technologies are two things you can expect to take to the bay after attending this class.

- * Brake technology update
- * Brake system fundamentals
- * Brake fluid flushing procedures
- * ABS operation and scan tool diagnostics
- * Hybrid braking technology
- * The myths behind brake pedal pulsation. There was a time in the industry that brakes and steering system repairs were some of the first tasks a new technician would be given. With technically advanced modern systems this may no longer be the case due to high complexity of these systems and the liability issues that come with them. NAPA Auto tech brake classes will install the confidence you need to stay in the game by updating lead technicians with new technology, and establishing a strong foundation for new techs to stand on.
